"SAVE THE BABIES"

This appeal is not for the poor little babies in Belgium and Serbia, but those in our own country on the western plains. The appeal comes not from the Red Cross but from the Commissioner of Indian Affairs at Washington. It indicates a wise and wholesome movement on the part of the Indian Commissioner to promote the life and health of the Indians. It is an interesting paper and indicative of the sane humane and appreciative view being taken by our government of the Indian problem in the progress of events.

Quoting from this address of the Indian Commissioner we have the following important utterance:

"It is our chief duty to protect the Indian's health and to save him from premature death. Before we educate him, before we conserve his property, we should save his life. We must guarantee to the Indian the first of inalienable rights—the right to live. No race was ever created for utter extinction. The chief concern of all ethics and all science and all philosophies is life."

Further on the Commissioner uses the following language:

"The Indian has demonstrated his humanity and his capacity for intellectual and moral progress amid conditions not always propitious, and I am eager to participate with all believing, as I do, that when he comes to himself as a factor in the modern world his achievements will enrich and brighten the civilization of his native land."

Such a message coming from so high authority in the governmental administration of the Indians is one of the very encouraging tokens of the redemption of the Indian people. And the Indians themselves are appreciative and co-operative. The Society of American Indians in its last report closes with the following stirring appeal to their own Indian people:

"Our final appeal in submitting this, our Annual Platform, is to our own race. We have no higher end than to see it reach out towards a place where it will become an active, positive, constructive factor in the life of the great nation. We call upon all persons of Indian blood to give of themselves to the uttermost, that their people may live in a higher sense than ever before and regain in that same sense, a normal place in this country of free men."

With this broad view of the Indian conditions on the part of the government and the earnest co-operation of the Indians themselves in the betterment of their race, we may hope for large and important improvement in their condition. —C. J. R.

THE CONGREGATIONAL BOARD OF MINISTERIAL RELIEF

Office: 287 Fourth Avenue, New York.
Henry A. Stimson, D.D., President; William A. Rice, D.D., Secretary; B. H. Fancher, Treasurer.

MRS. KUMASAKA AND HER CHILDREN

The cut on the first page of the cover presents a picture of the wife and children of Rev. Tosaburo Kumasaka, formerly pastor of our Japanese Congregational Church of Fresno, California. He had to give up his work there in 1914 because of failing health. One of the Congregational ministers of the Pacific Coast in a letter to Secretary Rice spoke of him as "a beloved Japanese brother, an ordained minister, pastor till now of our self-sustaining Congregational church and doing a very successful work till somehow he became a victim of the white plague and it has been doing its deadly work upon him with unusual rapidity."

The Board of Relief at once placed Mr. Kumasaka upon its roll of pensioners. The letters received from him, from time to time, always spiritual, always hopeful, have been a source of inspiration to those of us who have seen them. He has returned to Japan and has been dwelling under his father's roof, but his father has since died. His testimony of affection and honor for his father as written to this office was beautiful and affecting. We are sure our readers will enjoy with us the following quotation from one of his letters, though written in broken English:

> "I cannot express my and my family's joy by my poor English, being it is very much. It was the third time that I could not attend the Christmas Service since my birth, but the Christmas present of you made us a real Christmas. Santa Claus has come to the Far East, even to my small family. God's blessings are full in my home. I could see the hearts of the givers as well as the money and they gave me courage and strength. I can get up and walk in my house, but it is very cold so I cannot go out. After the spring warm season comes I can go to your country again if our Lord guides us. I am now in bed and live in the sick window, but I do His work still. I pray always for the peace of our world. When we think of our Father's heart about the War of the Europeans we must pray and do something.
> I am expecting to publish a letter book about the Minor Prophets as there are very few about the Prophets written in the Japanese language. It was written in my sick bed. This book shall be dedicated to the kindness of friends while we were in America. After its publication I will send you one."

Since that letter was written we have received the copy of the book. We could but wish we had an English translation, but it is a pleasure to know that this brother was able to prepare and publish the book for his people. For a time after their return to Japan the Board continued to minister, in some measure, to their wants. We have not heard from him for several months. Possibly he has crossed over to be forever with his Lord. It is a joy to look into the face of his devoted wife who shared heroicly in his work and to see the little children who we can but hope may grow up to love and continue their father's work.

THE SECOND ANNUAL MEETING OF THE ANNUITY FUND FOR CONGREGATIONAL MINISTERS

It was held in the Congregational Church of Glen Ridge, New Jersey, on January 18, 1916. Though this was the second annual meeting the Fund will not have been in force two years until May 7, 1916.

The meeting was organized by electing Rev. Thomas Bell, pastor of St. Marks Congregational Church, Brooklyn, New York, as Chairman and Rev. Frank W. Hodgdon, of Boston, as Secretary. Rev. C. S. Mills, D.D., of Montclair, New Jersey, offered prayer.

In the absence of Mr. B. H. Fancher, Treasurer, his report was read by Secretary Rice. It showed receipts for the year of $26,941.71 and a cash balance in the Treasury of $2,214.43 of which amount $2,102.98 was awaiting investment. The assets of the Fund on December 31, 1915, were $38,128.18. In addition, the Fund held subscriptions not yet due of $16,000.

Secretary Rice in his annual report called attention to the fact that a number of laymen had shown their faith in the Fund by subscribing about $6,000 toward the necessary expenses of promotion and extension—that there were 269 members in full standing, with other applications awaiting completion and that a growing interest in the plan for annuities was manifest in all parts of the country among both ministers and laymen. He said that the Fund was being promoted with emphasis upon five things:

First—To provide ultimately a reasonably adequate annuity or at least one more generous than has heretofore been possible under the Ministerial Relief Pensions, viz: $500 for the minister when he reaches 65 or 70, or in case of his death $300 to his widow, and if she dies to the minor children. Also a disability annuity for the minister if he becomes disabled so that he cannot continue his ministry.

Second—To honor the years of ministerial service—the full annuity being available only for those who have served in our Congregational Ministry thirty years or more. The next largest returns diminish gradually from the maximum annuity, as the years of service are nearest the full term of thirty years.

One of the most valuable and far-reaching effects of The Annuity Fund should be to encourage faithfulness and permanence in the Ministry of our Congregational churches.

Third—To establish the Fund for the coming years. The Annuity Fund takes a far look into the future and its value is not to be estimated by what it is able to do immediately. Its beneficent results will reveal themselves more fully as the years pass on. But it is not without great present value to its members—as in the case of the one who becomes totally disabled, or who is overtaken by early death—in the heartening of the minister and his family—in satisfaction from the fact that some provision has been made for the period of old age, for the misfortunes of sickness and accident, for the care of minor children, left without father or mother, and from the fact that this provision has back of it the love and honor, the generosity and sympathy of the denomination.

Fourth—To conserve at the same time the functions of the Board of Relief. The Annuity Fund will doubtless, in some measure, eventually ease up the demands upon the Board of Relief, but each will need and promote the other. Especially in the earlier years of the Annuity Fund will the Board of Relief be in great demand. The Board of Relief will be needed for those who for one reason or another, do not become members of the Annuity Fund. There will always be those who justify themselves in not becoming members.

Many of these will repent when it is too late to find forgiveness and will need in old age the tender and gracious ministry of the Board of Ministerial Relief. Ministerial Relief and The Annuity Fund are helpmeets, they work together, they go along side by side and either separately or jointly will provide for all our ministers and their families who may need their aid in the coming years.

Fifth—To keep before our minds the fact that the claims upon the Annuity Fund will come gradually—will be distributed over a long series of years and that the Fund needs a growing and dependable annual income. Hence the need of a reasonably large endowment—say two million dollars as soon as possible. The income of this endowment must always be supplemented by the dues of the members and the annual gifts of the churches and individuals.

We find it quite impossible to believe that there is any need in our denomination, more pressing or that would be so generally felt in every denominational agency, as that of providing our ministry against poverty and humiliation in the period of misfortune or the impairments of old age. In doing this, every cause would take on new life and vigor—missions at home and abroad would soon have increasingly efficient servants and the churches would grow by leaps and bounds.

A HEART-MOVING CASE

One of our faithful Congregational Home Missionaries returned from the meeting of the National Council in New Haven to his work with new courage and hope but soon to be stricken with a most serious malady.

The clerk of the church which this brother was serving, in a letter to the Home Missionary Superintendent of that state, speaks of the fact that though the pastor had not been able to do any work since last November and the church was without services, they had continued to pay him his salary or its equivalent but that the time had now come when it was necessary that the church should have another minister. Already the attendance in both church and Sunday-school is diminishing. The little company of believers who constitute the church are not able to continue paying the sick minister and provide a salary for the new minister, so he asks the Superintendent, "Is there a state or other fund for pastors who are disabled or sick?"

The Superintendent has put the case up to the Board of Ministerial Relief. He writes, "This pastor is a fine, high-grade man and has done faithful work. They have a family of four children between the ages of four and eleven. I do not think they have anything laid by for a rainy day. It gives me a heart ache when I think of them." He enclosed a letter from the minister's wife from which I venture to make a quotation: "My husband has not been able to do much work since he came back from the Council. He is confined to his room. We both feel pretty blue just now, not knowing just how we are going to get along. We are hoping for the best."

The Board of Ministerial Relief will not lose any time in coming to the rescue of this family but it cannot meet the full requirements in such a crisis as this. It will, however, do the best it can.

If this were the only case, urgent and appealing, we might make an exceptional effort, but there are many others and the funds available are inadequate, yet they are increasing all the time and our churches are becoming more and more aroused as to the claim of the old minister. There ought not to be any delay in providing for Ministerial Relief, an income of $100,000 a year.

THE CONGREGATIONAL HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY

Office: 287 Fourth Avenue, New York.
Charles E. Burton, D.D., General Secretary; Herman F. Swartz, D.D., Associate Secretary; Rev. W. S. Beard, Assistant Secretary; Chas. H. Baker, Treasurer; Miss Miriam L. Woodberry, Secretary Woman's Department.

The Annual Meeting of the Society will be held in May, the exact time and place to be announced later. Special interest will attach to this meeting, because it will celebrate the ninetieth anniversary of the organization of the National Society.

Churches, and especially church treasurers, will do well to note that the plans of realignment adopted by the National Council for the homeland Societies make absolutely no difference whatever in the apportionment for, or remittances to, the various Societies. The changes simply involve administrative policies.

Two new leaflets have been issued by the Home Missionary Society that will prove of great interest, especially to makers of missionary meeting programs. They are "A Bird's-Eye View of a Colorado Parish," by Rev. J. F. Walker, describing a great parish in the Rocky Mountain region, and "Alaska, Many Lands in One," by Rev. Philip E. Bauer.

For the assistance of missionary committees of the Young People's Societies, the American Board and the Home Missionary Society have jointly prepared a leaflet of suggestions for leaders, covering the regular missionary topics of the year and adding missionary suggestions for two other regular topics; also providing four optional missionary topics. This leaflet will be sent free on request to either the American Board or the Home Missionary Society.

♣ ♣ ♣

By the time this word reaches our readers, Dr. R. L. Breed, Assistant Secretary, will have concluded his connection with the Home Missionary Society and have been fully introduced to his new task as Superintendent of the Chicago City Missionary Society, with offices at 19 South La Salle Street. The deepest interest of his host of friends follows Dr. Breed in his new work.

It may not be needed, but if in any case it is needed, let us call the attention of pastors to the rich opportunity for definite evangelistic efforts in the weeks preceding Easter. It is a matter of wide experience that most hearts respond more readily than at other times to the evangelistic note when sounded during Lent.

THE WORK OF AN ARMY CHAPLAIN ON THE MEXICAN BORDER

By Rev. John Lee Maddox, Camp Eagle Pass, Tex.

WHEN I joined the organization to which I was assigned, not quite a year ago, I found the regiment in camp, the men living in tents, and the necessary apparatus for doing a chaplain's work slender in the extreme. "The Post Exchange"—the regimental dry-goods store—was placed at my disposal for church services, and the band was detailed to furnish music. Beginning at eight o'clock on Sunday morning, I went to each tent—about two hundred in all—and invited the men to the nine o'clock service. A crowd, varying from thirty to two hundred soldiers, was gathered each Sunday, and it was gratifying to note the interest with which they listened to the services. However, as there were but few seats in "The Exchange," and the men, for the most part, were compelled to stand during the services, it was with great joy that the chaplain's "outfit"—a large tent, 250 folding chairs, and a motion picture machine—was received from the War Department.

The tent was pitched in a central location, and named "Recreation Tent." Promptly at nine o'clock Sunday mornings, "church call" was sounded, and the attendance was very good until the coming of the extremely hot weather, during which it was almost impossible to get a congregation together. However, when the heat became less intense, there was a marked increase in the number of people attending the services, and they continued to grow until one stormy Sunday in November, when a heavy gale struck the tent, tore the side walls in pieces, and made it necessary for the chaplain to secure another place in which to do his work.

One of the buildings of old Fort Duncan was set aside for this purpose, and an attempt was made to get the men together in a single room which had formerly been used as an officer's quarters. But the room was small and not very attractive, and in consequence this venture was not an astounding success.

The chaplain was greatly perplexed. What was to be done? Since the local Episcopal church is at present without a rector, the expedient was finally hit upon of trying to secure it for army services. The use of the building was generously granted, and now religious worship for the officers and men of the command is held regularly in that sanctuary. In spite of the fact that the church is a good half hour's walk from the camp, it is such a cozy, attractive, and inviting place that the number of both soldiers and civilians present at each service is gratifying.

Work among military prisoners has been fruitful in its results. There is a difference between a military and a civil offence. Soldiers may be confined in the guard house for being absent without leave, for insubordination, and for a variety of causes which would be winked at outside of military life. Hence among prisoners the chaplain often has good material on which to work. Some commanding officers advocate the isolation of military offenders, the idea being to make life in the guard house so unpleasant that no soldier will want to be placed there a second time. Other commanding officers take the opposite view, and and when this condition obtains, as it does in this regiment, the chaplain is permitted to visit the prisoners as often as he chooses and to help them in any way possible. On my visits to the guard house it is my custom to carry newspapers, magazines, stamps, and writing material to any prisoner who may desire them. Men in confinement often open their hearts to the chaplain, and frequently make a clean breast of their misdeeds. Thus the minister of Christ is in a position to be of service in the way of offering suggestions calculated to prove helpful both during confinement and for all time to come. And since it is his duty to act as the friend of the unfortunate, the chaplain is not infrequently chosen to act as counsel for the prisoners at their military trial. I might say that this task, although frequently performed by other chaplains, has not as yet fallen to my lot.

A chaplain may make himself very effectively felt among the sick. I began my visits to the wards immediately upon my arrival at the post. I always take with me papers and magazines, and I make it a point never to leave the hospital without saying something designed to brighten the lives of the sick and to make their monotonous days seem less wearisome.

THE POST SCHOOL

Then there is the personal contact by means of which the chaplain may be of much service to the men of his regiment. Many soldiers come from religious homes, and naturally come to the representative of the church for conversation and instruction on religious and moral subjects. To meet this opportunity for service I have found it best to lay aside everything suggestive of sectarianism and centralize every effort to the end of doing the utmost for the officers and men of the United States Army, regardless of social standing, rank, race, or religious belief. An old and experienced chaplain has recently stated that, during his many years of experience, he has been able to present the claims of the Christian ministry successfully to the men of his regiment on several occasions, and it has been a source of great satisfaction to the writer to have been able, during a short term of service, to influence young men by the personal touch, not only along religious lines, but to the extent of persuading them to take up some useful line of study at some educational institution upon the completion of their term of enlistment.

This leads to a discussion of what the chaplain may do along educational lines. It is required that he shall provide instruction in the ordinary English branches for the enlisted men of the army. School is held at least three hours weekly from the first of November until the last day of March. The chaplain usually acts as superintendent of the Post schools, teachers, one for every fifteen scholars, being provided at his request by the commanding officer of the regiment. Attendance upon the school is purely voluntary until a man has signified in writing his intention of placing himself under instruction. It is then obligatory upon him to be present at every session unless hindered by a military reason. At the beginning of the school year seventy men in this regiment "signed up" for the Post school. Instruction in reading, writing, spelling, arithmetic, geography, and United States history is given. Five men having signified their wish to study algebra and geometry, the chaplain gladly took it upon himself to give instruction in these advanced courses. And this kind of work pays.

After the unfortunate fate of the "Recreation Tent," to which reference has already been made, the commanding officer designated one set of officers' quarters known as the "Lighthouse" to be used for welfare work among the enlisted men. Writing material, writing tables, and the like, are available daily from ten a. m. until ten p. m. Daily newspapers, periodicals, and magazines are kept constantly on file for the use of everybody in the regiment. Through the influence of the colonel of the regiment about 300 books were accumulated by the managers of newspapers and sent to be used for the benefit of the command. Some thirty books had already been collected by the chaplain, and thus a library was begun. Later, it was possible to get together some 200 additional volumes, and over 700 have been sent from the home station of the regiment, Fort Macpherson, Georgia. These books have been catalogued and are available at any time during the day, the rule being that no one volume can be kept longer than three weeks, at the end of which time it may be renewed.

Many soldiers have an inborn love for music. In order to provide recreation of this kind a large phonograph and over 300 musical selections are at the disposal of every man in the regiment. Great care was taken in the selection of the records, and the class of music varies from rag time and Negro melodies to works of the best masters. It has been very gratifying to hear from day to day less and less music of the inferior kind, and more and more selections from such composers as Verdi, Gounod, and Wagner.

Games are constantly available for all. Dominoes, checkers, carroms, and pool may be played every day except during the time of services on Sunday, the object being to provide such wholesome amusement at home that the men will have no reason or desire to seek recreation in saloons or places of vice.

Such, in bare outline, are some of the features of the more important activities of a clergyman in the American Army. The work is arduous and intricate, but interesting. The opportunities are great, and the being of use to the men is delightful. If the work is properly done, results are certain, and, judging from a short experience of a little over ten months, the life of an army chaplain would seem to be worth while.

What are the needs? It is desired to increase the number of books in the library. It takes money to provide for the church services, to pay for magazine subscriptions, and to aid the soldier boy, when, as often happens, he becomes financially embarrassed. If, therefore, any person who may chance to read these lines feels that he would like to assist in work of this kind, either books or cash will be gratefully received and judiciously used.

WORKING AMONG THE TEN THOUSAND CUBANS OF WEST TAMPA

By Rev. Otto J. Scheibe

THE West Tampa Mission, better known as the Congregational Latin-American Institute, consists of two churches, the American and the Cuban, a day school for Cuban children, and two homes, one for Cuban boys, and the other for Cuban girls.

Ten thousand Cubans have found employment in the fifteen cigar factories of West Tampa. These factories employ from 150 to 650 persons each. In many ways the city is strictly Cuban. A foreign language is spoken, the furnishings of the homes are not at all American, and the arrangement of their shops and coffee houses is peculiar. They rise very early in the morning, and are at work by six o'clock. At nine they go home to breakfast, and then labor until three p. m., when the day's work is done. Beginning with Christmas eve there was a continual noise of fire crackers, torpedoes, rockets, etc. It reminded one of a Fourth of July celebration in the North. Our Mission stands in the very heart of the Cuban population, and is in close touch with the people.

The Mission is endeavoring to carry on four lines of work. The greatest emphasis is placed on the evangelistic work. This, however, has its difficulties. In order to understand and appreciate the obstacles that lie in our way, we must come to understand the Cuban. As a people they are amiable, hospitable, and polite. They come to our shores for the same reason that the Pilgrim Fathers came—in search of liberty. But their idea of liberty differs from ours. The heavy hands of the Roman church and the Spanish government have been upon them so long that, now they are free, they have thrown off all religious responsibility and, to some extent, religious thought. Agnosticism is rife, and there are cases of real infidelity. They had no opportunity to learn in their own country, for the Roman Catholic religion was the only one tolerated, and upon coming to America they learn to look upon all churches alike, and they take a very different attitude toward Christian work. It is not right to take the view that these people are adherents to the Catholic faith. It would be better for them and better for the Mission if they were. The women are a little inclined that way, but the men, with few exceptions, have turned away from Romanism, from all religion, and are satisfied with their clubs, union circles, and lodges, all of which you will find here in abundance. Sunday is the day for these meetings. Business is not interrupted on Sunday. Delivery wagons, collectors, etc., are on the streets the same as on any other day. The people are not to blame for this. It is only the continuation of the custom of their own land, where Romanism has held full sway for four hundred years. They are only doing what their fathers did before them. It is now up to us to set before them a gospel and a life that will lift them into real liberty. And this they are seeking. When one comes to understand them and to love them, they respond very quickly to any efforts that may be made to help them.

This the founder and president of the Mission, Rev. F. P. Ensminger, and his wife discovered, and they endeavored in every way to reach the hearts of the people. They also realized the difficulties, and began in a roundabout way, by establishing a day school. This school I consider one of the greatest assets to our Mission work. From it our Sunday-school is largely made up. We make it obligatory upon those entering our day-school to attend our Sunday-school also. The missionary and his wife give much of their time to visiting the homes and they find it very profitable work. The people seem to enjoy our visits. We drink their coffee and are one with them. We see the results of this in our public meetings.

West Tampa, like all cities laid out by enterprising real estate men, is scattered over a large territory. While we have children from all sections under our care, it is hard to get the adults to come from any distance to our services. So we must take the meetings to them.

WHERE SOME OF THE WORKERS LIVE

The second line of endeavor is educational. In our day school we teach the same course as is taught in the public school, but we are able to give more time to the individual pupil. There is a great demand for the private school. The Cuban is accustomed to this, and thinks it is a privilege to send his children to such an institution.

The third line of work is carried on in our homes. Our boys and girls are not delinquents, but children of school age, from homes where both parents are at work in the factories and desire to leave their children in a safe place. They feel that we can train and educate them in the ways of the new land better than they can do. We also have children who are motherless or fatherless. In the homes, under careful matrons, they are trained in the duties and sanctities of the Christian life, and special emphasis is laid upon habits of individual devotion, Sunday observance, and wholesome fair play. The girls are instructed in sewing and in all the things that go to make useful citizens. Music lessons are given to those who desire them. The influence of this work can never be told in cold type.

Our fourth line of activity is the social service. We are not very well prepared for this at present, but when the parsonage is enlarged and the grounds cleared and sodded, we shall be able to do much more. Our home is open to our Cuban friends. Evening gatherings for the young people have proven a great success. The only entertainments open to them are the movies, the club dances, etc. The children of the parish are always ready for an afternoon's play, and the mothers find our home a pleasant place for a social afternoon. In all this we seek to provide pure and uplifting entertainment, and, as far as possible, we emphasize the sanctity of the home. All this meets with a hearty approval which assures us a large field of usefulness in this line, and the influence of this work will reach many homes. The education these people are receiving is equipping them for life and its duties, and is enabling them to build up homes and to earn an honest living. Their active minds are getting a training that will satisfy their intellectual natures. Above all, in the simplest manner possible, we are setting before them a pearl which is priceless, priceless because what it gives to the heart is not only current in this world but in that which is to come.

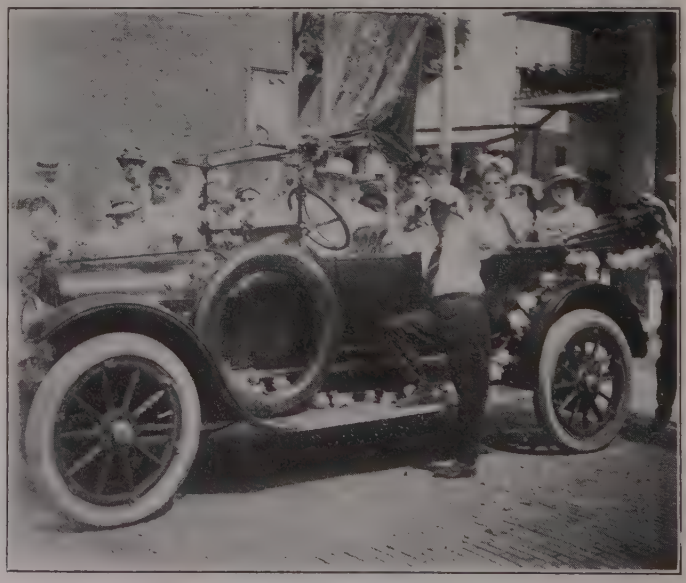
SOME OF OUR GIRLS.

We ask the interest of the readers of THE AMERICAN MISSIONARY for these pilgrims from Cuba. They have come to us and now are ours. We must help them to develop into useful citizens and also to be citizens where there are no strangers or foreigners, but all belong to one household—the household of God.



AN OUTING IN WEST TAMPA

THE MID-WINTER MEETING

THE midwinter meeting of the home missionary leaders from all over the country constitutes a reassuring event. Very unusual interest was attached to this year's meeting, owing to the fact that it was the occasion for the formal action which should bring the Society in line with the report of the Commission on Missions adopted by the National Council at New Haven. In consequence of this fact, the representatives of the Church Building Society, as well as those of the Home Missionary Society, were in attendance. The adjourned meeting of the Society itself was also held in connection with this meeting.

Spiritual contact between the Secretaries of the two Societies and the workers in the wide fields was secured by the use of the Sunday afternoon and evening for fellowship meetings, in which Secretary Richards of the Building Society, and Secretaries Burton and Swartz of the Home Missionary Society, brought spiritual messages to their brethren without any thought of the immediate bearing of these messages upon the technical work of the Societies. It is felt that this feature is one of rare value. Nearly two score of the churches of Chicago had the opportunity of hearing the message from the home missionary field at the morning services on January 16. The conferences, which began on Monday morning, constituted a clearing house of methods for the Superintendents and field workers in the various states and departments. Every man returned from this conference better equipped for his own work, and more courageous and enthusiastic because of a deepening of the consciousness that he is not working alone, but is one of a substantial and effective army.

The meeting of the Board of Directors occupied Tuesday afternoon and evening, Wednesday forenoon and part of Wednesday afternoon, January 18 and 19. In these sessions a multitude of business details was attended to, special attention being given to actions required by the proposed readjustments.

The meeting of the Society was held on Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock, more extended reference to which is made in another column.

One of the most valuable features was a very informal conference on Wednesday evening, when questions concerning the real meaning of the new order of things were asked and answered. This conference was the means of clearing up considerable confusion regarding the outworking of the new plans.

MEETING OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS

THE midwinter meeting of the Board of Directors of the Home Missionary Society took place in the Fort Dearborn Hotel, Chicago, January 18 and 19. This meeting was attended by the retiring Board of Directors and also by the nominees of the National Council for the new Board, which is identical with the Church Extension Board. The representatives of the various Constituent States are the same persons in both instances. But the new Board is enlarged to thirty-six, as compared with twenty-six under the former organization. Many of the new members of the Board are also Trustees of the Church Building Society. So both organizations were represented in these sessions, although the legal business transacted was exclusively that of the Home Missionary Society.

The reports of the Secretaries, the Treasurer, and the various committees showed the work of the Society to be in splendid condition, in spite of the fact that the receipts, thus far this year, have been some $8,000 less than for the corresponding period of the year before. On account of this falling off in receipts, the budget of appropriations for missionary work for the coming year had to be practically the same as for the preceding year. This was made possible only by the increased income from investments.

The specific items of business transacted by the Board of Directors included the preparation of the amendments to the Constitution required under the plans for realignment, the acceptance of the resignation of Assistant Secretary Breed, and the election, as his successor, of Rev. William S. Beard, of Willimantic, Connecticut.

It was decided to observe the ninetieth anniversary of the organization of the national Home Missionary Society in connection with the Annual Meeting in May.

To facilitate closer relationship between the foreign-speaking churches and their neighboring English speaking churches, a plan was adopted whereby applications for aid for foreign-speaking pastors shall pass through the hands of the state Superintendents in each case; and reports of aided pastors of foreign-speaking churches shall also be submitted to the state Superintendents. It is felt that this will introduce our state officials to more vital relationships with the foreign-speaking brethern and add not a little to the richness of fellowship in the various states.

The question of adequate salaries received considerable attention, and the Board put itself on record in favor of stressing the effort to raise home missionary salaries to at least a living wage. Definite and persistent effort is to be made in this direction in the future. The Directors also approved the plan of the Secretarial Conference for the celebration of the tercentenary, and referred it to the Commission on Missions with their hearty endorsement.

Provisions were made whereby a committee may be appointed, should it be requested by the Commission on Missions, to represent the Home Missionary Society, in conference with the Congregational Sunday-School and Publishing Society, with reference to the possible transfer of the extension work of the Sunday-School Society to the Church Extension Boards, as suggested in the report of the Commission on Missions.

After the adjourned meeting of the Society, the new Board of Directors held a session for organization, and elected the following persons to constitute the new Executive Committee: Rev. Lewis T. Reed; Rev. Rockwell H. Potter, D.D.; Rev. George L. Cady, D.D.; Rev. J. E. McConnell, D.D.; Hon. Alfred Coit; Mr. Arthur F. Whitin; Mrs. Harry Wade Hicks; Rev. J. T. Stocking, D.D.; Dr. Lucien C. Warner; Rev. William H. Ward, D.D.; Rev. W. H. Kephart; Rev. S. L. Loomis, D.D.; Mr. John M. Whiton; Mr. Franklin H. Warner; Rev. Watson L. Phillips, D.D.

THE ADJOURNED MEETING OF THE CONGREGATIONAL HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY

THE members of the Society will recall that the Annual Meeting at New Haven adjourned to meet in Chicago, January 19, for the purpose of amending the Constitution and taking such other action as might be found necessary in order to conform to the plan of organization of the Church Extension Boards adopted by the National Council.

This adjourned meeting was called to order by President Potter in the Fort Dearborn Hotel, Chicago, at two p. m., January 19, and was attended largely by the officers, the Directors, Executive Committeemen, Superintendents, and local members of the Society. This gave a fairly representative body and furnished an attendance sufficiently large for the rather formal duties involved. These duties were formal because the action of the Society and the National Council at New Haven determined their nature.

The committee appointed at New Haven had prepared a draft of amendments to the Constitution. This had been carefully gone over by the Directors and recommended by the Board for adoption by the Society. These amendments were simple. They provided for thirty-six Directors instead of twenty-six, the number being made up of one Director from each Constituent State, as in the past, and seventeen instead of six Directors-at-large. They also provided for an Executive Committee of fifteen instead of eleven as heretofore. The Board is to meet in regular session annually instead of semi-annually, and the Nominating Committee of the National Council is made the Nominating Committee of the Home Missionary Society, which Committee is instructed to make nominations in accordance with the provisions of the Constitution "and the action of the National Council relative to the common administration of this and other missionary Societies." It is this last amendment which actually brings the Home Missionary Society under the direction of the Church Extension Boards, whose members become its Board of Directors.

Following the adoption of the amendments to the Constitution, the resignations of the Directors of the Society were accepted, and the new Board, consisting of the following persons, was elected: From Constituent States—Connecticut, Mr. G. M. Carrington; Illinois, Mr. William Spooner; Iowa, Rev. W. J. Minchin; Kansas, Mr. George A. Guild; Maine, Mr. W. L. Bass; Massachusetts, Rev. George L. Cady; Michigan, Rev. Bastian Smits; Minnesota, Mr. A. P. Stacy; Missouri, Mr. Alfred P. Schauffler; Nebraska, Rev. F. T. Rouse; New Hampshire, Rev. L. H. Thayer; New York, Rev. C. H. Small; Northern California, Rev. R. C. Brooks; Ohio, Mr. T. M. Bates; Rhode Island, Rev. J. E. McConnell; Southern California, Mr. Fred M. Wilcox; Vermont, Rev. Arthur P. Pratt; Washington, Rev. T. H. Harper; Wisconsin, Mr. C. D. Rosa. Directors-at-Large—Rev. Rockwell H. Potter; Dr. Lucien C. Warner; Mr. W. W. Mills; Hon. Alfred Coit; Rev. William Hayes Ward; Mr. John M. Whiton; Mrs. Harry Wade Hicks; Rev. Samuel L. Loomis; Rev. F. V. Stevens; Mr. F. H. Warner; Rev. W. H. Kephart; Rev. Watson L. Phillips; Rev. S. H. Woodrow; Prof. Samuel T. Dutton; Rev. A. Eugene Thompson; Rev. J. B. Gonzales.

The Board of Directors was authorized to divide itself into three classes, so that ultimately each class should serve six years. Rev. Rockwell Harmon Potter, D.D., was elected President, and Mr. W. W. Mills, Vice-President. Rev. Charles E. Burton, D.D., was elected General Secretary, and Mr. C. H. Baker, Treasurer, to serve until April 1, 1918, which is the end of the fiscal year following the next biennial meeting of the Society, at which meeting the Constitution requires the election of these officers.

From the above it is seen that the initial steps in carrying out the program of the National Council present no serious difficulties.

DO MEXICAN PEOPLE REALLY NEED THE GOSPEL

By Rev. J. M. Moya, Albuquerque, N. M.

ACCORDING to the census of 1910 the state of New Mexico has a population of nearly 300,000. Through the Panama-California Exposition, New Mexico has been well advertised. Its fine climate, large resources, and growing wealth are attracting the attention of thousands of people in all parts of the country. Professional men, business men, farmers, health seekers, and many others are coming into the state, which is often called the "state of opportunities," and I would call it the "state of opportunities," not only for business men, but for the Christian church. Her mission is to send out the Gospel of the Lord Jesus Christ to those who are in need, and we need the Gospel here. When our Lord said, "Go into all the world and preach the Gospel," He meant the Mexican people as well as the people of other parts of the world.

We need men and women who will care not only for secular things, but who will also care for the souls of poor sinners. I believe in Foreign Missions. I thank God for the glorious work that has been accomplished abroad. But there is plenty of work for the church within our doors. How often we are asked questions like these: "What are you doing in New Mexico?" "Have you made any impression on the people?" "Is the Gospel doing anything for them?" "Do you think it is worth while to send missionaries out there?" "Do you really think the Mexican people need the Gospel?" We are glad to hear these questions. They show that interest in missions and Christian work is still alive in many hearts. They give us courage, and we keep on working with more faith and hope, committing to God all our efforts and plans, and we feel that He will bless us in our efforts.

When these questions are asked, we look back twenty years or more to the time when we first came into this field. We can not help thinking of this man and that woman who have been converted in one place and another. We recall our Sabbath and day schools and remember the young people of both sexes who have escaped the corruption that abounds in their environment. While we lament that more has not been done, and are oppressed by the demands for enlarged work, we can truly rejoice in our recollections of these twenty years of service under Divine guidance and blessing among these Spanish-Mexican friends. Our missionaries, missions, and converts are comparatively few. But we thank God because they are the very best people of the communities where they live. Under the uplifting and steadying influence of the Gospel a remarkable improvement has been seen among the Mexican people, not only in the way of education and morality, but they have become more energetic and industrious. I am of the opinion that the one great need of these people is education. The future of New Mexico will largely depend upon the education of the masses, and they are coming to realize more and more the advantages which come with a good education. In some of our modern schools our boys and girls are receiving an elementary training. But our great need is industrial schools—schools which will not only afford a good secular training, but where these young people may learn to serve God and become good Christians.

"THE BABY WAS RECENTLY BAPTIZED"

Some people are under the impression that the Roman Catholic church is the only church suited to the religious needs of the Mexican people. We do not believe that this is the case. I myself was born in that church. I know what it is, and what it stands for. At the age of fourteen I was converted and joined the Congregational church. It is a cause of sorrow to us that the majority of the women are blind followers of the priesthood, and are encouraging the people to give more attention to the education of their daughters. We frequently tell our friends not to give up their church if they do not wish to do so. How we wish they would give up the Mass Book and take the Bible in its place! They have been taught that the Bible is intended for educated people only, but I notice that of late many of our people are showing a great interest in obtaining it.

Man is a religious being, and among these people, as in the time of Christ, many confess themselves not satisfied with the husks of Romanism. They are hungering for the Bread and Water of Life. We are sure that the Gospel can do for the Mexican people what it has done for others. It has paid, and we know it is still paying, to teach the Gospel to these people, and it will pay more and more until they are all brought to Christ and His church. But time and patience are needed in this work. Results can not come too quickly. Our Mexican people must have a fair chance. The great mission of the church is to bring man to God, and this mission will not be accomplished until the Mexican people are brought into the fold.

OUR NEW ASSISTANT SECRETARY

REV. WILLIAM SPENCER BEARD, who succeeds Rev. R. L. Breed, D.D., as Assistant Secretary of the Home Missionary Society, comes of pure Congregational stock. His grandfather, Rev. Spencer Field Beard, served various parishes in Connecticut and Massachusetts, including Norton, Methuen, and Waquoit, Massachusetts, and Montville and Greenville, Connecticut. In a ministry of thirty years, his father, Rev. William Henry Beard, served three large parishes—Freedom, Maine, Harwich, Massachuetts, and South Killingly, Windham County, Connecticut. An uncle, Rev. Edwin Spencer Beard, served the church at Brooklyn, Windham County, Connecticut, from 1874 until his death, in 1891. Rev. Augustus F. Beard, of the American Missionary Association, is a cousin of the new Secretary. Mr. Beard's mother, Mary Adelaide (Parker) Beard, is living at Flushing, Long Island, and the home of mother and son is to be together.

Mr. Beard was born at Harwich, Massachusetts, and was prepared for college at the high school at Danielson, Connecticut, and at Phillips Academy, Andover, Massachusetts, graduating from the latter place in 1890. He received his A.B. at Yale in 1894, and his B.D. from the same institution in 1897. Home obligations made it impossible for Mr. Beard to go to a foreign field, as he had intended to do, and, in 1895, he began preaching in the little church in Westchester, seventeen miles from Willimantic, Connecticut. On the death of his father, in 1896, Mr. Beard succeeded him as acting pastor of the church in South Killingly, and in 1897 he accepted a call to the Congregational church at Durham, New Hampshire, where he was installed September 28, 1897. He continued as pastor of this church until July, 1908.

Mr. Beard began work at Willimantic September 20, 1908. He has served the church in that place until the present time. The continuity of service of Mr. Beard's family in eastern Connecticut is worthy of note. The work which he leaves is but seventeen miles from the church where he preached his first sermon. In the adjoining county his grandfather had two parishes, in one of which his mother was born, as were the members of her family for many generations. His father served as missionary pastor in the same county for twenty-four years, and his uncle was minister of another church for eighteen years.

Mr. Beard's work at Willimantic has furnished one of the outstanding instances of an effective pastorate. A most successful young people's work has been developed, a church house has been built and equipped, a second church has been affiliated with the Willimantic church, and a director of religious education has been secured. These features are but illustrative of the successful ongoing of the church under Mr. Beard's direction.

Mr. Beard has also been a leader in local community interests. While in Durham, he was for a while a member of the school board, and also, for several years, secretary of the Village Improvement Society, an active organization, which restored several ancient landmarks, including the burial place of Major General John Sullivan of Revolutionary fame. In Willimantic, Mr. Beard has been secretary of the local Board of Trade for a year, and he served for four years as chairman of its Committee on Entertainment and as one of its representatives on the Eastern Connecticut Developing Committee, a federation constituted of five Boards of Trade. He was intimately connected with the founding of a United Charities, and is serving as trustee on an about-to-be-established Home for the Aged. He is also a director of the Connecticut Peace Society and the Connecticut Humane Society, and is a member of the Yale Club of New York.

Home missionary interests have always been dear to the heart of Mr. Beard. This interest naturally descended from grandfather and father to the present generation. In New Hampshire he served for several years as chairman of the State Missionary Committee, and as representative of the Church Building Society. In that state he inaugurated the use of the Apportionment Plan. Since 1908 he has been a member of the State Missionary Committee of Connecticut, and for several years he served as chairman of the Association Missionary Committee. In these connections he has pushed the Apportionment Plan, and has arranged several campaigns in the country for missionary societies. His good faith in this work has been borne out by the inauguration of the Every-Member Canvass in his own church, covering both current expenses and benevolences—thus bringing his church to the front in missionary interests and contributions.

The Home Missionary Society considers itself fortunate indeed in securing the services of so able a man, who knows our churches intimately, and particularly the churches of New England, which furnish a large part of the support of our home missionary enterprise.

Mr. Beard's functions in the Society will keep him constantly in the New York office, the conviction having become a deep one that more constant attention to office affairs is essential to the best work of the Society. Mr. Beard comes to the work of the Society at once, so there will be no break whatever between the services of Dr. Breed and those of his successor.

INTERDENOMINATIONAL RELATIONS

[Editor's Note.—The following, from the report of its Committee on Interdenominational Relationships, was ordered printed by the Board of Directors of The Congregational Home Missionary Society.]

It is the policy of The Congregational Home Missionary Society, in relations with other evangelical denominations, to follow, as far as possible, the following lines of action:

I. We do not enter communities already reasonably furnished with religious facilities. In case of uncertainty as to the adequacy of the ministry of the other denominations, we have generally taken an exceedingly conservative course.

II. Where we have early been at work, and others have come in to crowd the field, we have, in times past, largely maintained a passive policy, with the result of the loss of many fields and considerable investments.

III. We have constantly sought to found and support interdenominational committees of reference and adjudication, in order to minimize competition between denominations.

IV. In late years we have led in the processes of exchange of churches between Methodists, Presbyterians, and others. We commend this.

V. We are, in recent days, realizing that comity is not furthered by passive surrender, but rather discredited. We are now putting up a vigorous fight in several fields in which we believe we have been unjustifiably attacked.

VI. Only one protest has reached us in the last year from any denomination. This case we immediately offered to refer to impartial arbitration. The protesting body appears to have dropped the case.

VII. We have actively participated with other denominations in councils, committees, and joint bodies, in working out wise procedure for our common interests. (Illustration, Home Missions Council). In many instances we have furnished the initiative and the leadership.

The Congregational Home Missionary Society has three main sources of income. Legacies furnish, though very irregularly, approximately, forty-eight per cent., or $120,000 annually. To avoid fluctuation, when more is received, it is placed in the Legacy Equalization Fund. Investments furnish nine per cent., or about $23,000 annually. Contributions from churches, societies, and individuals afford substantially forty-three per cent., or $108,000 annually. For all but eighteen states the treasurer of The Congregational Home Missionary Society receives and expends these contributions. In those eighteen states, affiliated organizations administer home missionary work in co-operation with The Congregational Home Missionary Society. Each of these organizations forwards a percentage of its undesignated receipts to the national treasury. To each of these the national treasury forwards a percentage of undesignated contributions from each state respectively. The percentages to The Congregational Home Missionary Society in the various states are as follows: California (North), 5; California (South), 5; Connecticut, 60; Illinois, 25; Iowa, 25; Kansas, 5; Maine, 10; Massachusetts, 33⅓; Michigan, 15; Minnesota, 5; Missouri, 5; Nebraska, 5; New Hampshire, 50; New York, 10; Ohio, 13; Rhode Island, 20; Vermont, 33; Washington, 3; Wisconsin, 10.

The fiscal year of the Home Missionary Society will have closed before another comparative statement will reach the eyes which scan this one. All who care enough for Home Missions to study the above statement will want to do everything in their power to change the figures in the "net available" column, from the decrease of $5,592.48 to a substantial increase when the books of the Society close on March 31. Treasurers of State Societies, of churches, and of the various affiliated organizations can help by sending in all money in hand in time for credit. Pastors and committees can help by stimulating the payment of pledges and by efforts to secure additional contributions. Individuals can help by sending in special gifts at once. A good closing of the old year will mean a good beginning for the new year. We can not go forward without orders. It is the policy of the Society to limit its work by its receipts. This means that many urgent calls have to be refused. Relative to an offer of good men for work in a Western state, the Superintendent writes: "It will not be possible to take advantage of the offer, much as we should like to. We have our hands full to hold our own and keep our churches supplied. We can not put any men on the mission fields this year for lack of funds."

WHY DO WE STRESS OUR WORK FOR THE NEGRO RACE?

BECAUSE in the problem of winning the world to the Kingdom of God we must measure influences. Missionary enterprises are to be estimated by their weight. Not all missionary calls accentuate themselves equally in their demand for Christian attention. Missions that are comparatively local and to that degree uninfluential cannot have the emphasis of those which have a wider scope and a greater missionary strategy. There are missionary opportunities indeed in all times for all peoples and there are also signal opportunities for special times and peoples. Our mission to the Negro people is stressed because it has such tremendous significance. Here is a race of millions in the very heart of our nation. Millions are in a time of transitional life—capable of great good or great evil—which cannot be neglected because it is transitional. If we care for the Christian welfare of the nation we must regard it as an imperative call which cannot wait. The reasons for it are so critical and so far reaching that they outweigh many demands that are equally real but not equally large. Because in our missionary appeals we have to keep the perspective, we stress our work for ten millions of the heirs of slavery—to whom we owe the Light of Life.

THE NEW LEADERS OF A. M. A. CHURCH WORK

Secretary H. Paul Douglass.

THE experiment of an increased supervisory force for the Negro churches was initiated a year and a half ago with no blowing of trumpets. It has, however, already proved a prompt and striking success. While the number of our churches is such as is commonly handled by one superintendent in the average home missionary state or district they are scattered over many states; most of them are feeble, many isolated and all have frequent serious problems and need a touch of intensive friendly attention which has not hitherto been possible.

The field has, therefore, been divided into four superintendencies as follows: North and South Carolina and Georgia under Rev. Dennis J. Flynn, with headquarters at Charlotte, N. C.; Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama and Florida under Rev. Harold M. Kingsley, with headquarters at Talladega, Alabama (this has been the field of Supt. George W. Moore who now retires and Mr. Kingsley comes to be his successor from similar work in Texas and Oklahoma); Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas under Rev. Alfred Lawless, Jr., with headquarters at New Orleans, La. Mr. Lawless is also field representative of Tougaloo and Straight Colleges, and incidentally assistant moderator of the National Council. Texas and Oklahoma constitute the fourth district, the superintendency of which is yet to be filled; a man closely identified with the field, however, is in mind.

Aside from very much more frequent visitation of churches, the new supervisory methods have made greatly for the fellowship of the churches. The North Carolina pastors' conference initiated last year by Supt. Flynn was a miniature Northfield and brought new inspiration and zeal for biblical preaching as well as added denominational interest and intelligence to almost every pastor in the state. A financial campaign, largely in preparation for it, culminated most successfully. Mr. Flynn's evangelistic gifts are especially useful and have served both the large city churches and the little country fields. No man is more heartily in sympathy with, or understands better, the needs of his brethren.

Tribute has already been born to Dr. Moore's exceptional service. Supt. Lawless' work has been marked by the largest number of new enterprises initiated by local funds that our work has seen for long years. The strategic purchase of new or additional property for the development of the work along community service lines has gone steadily forward and its fruits begin to appear. Louisiana has a fine faculty of seeing opportunity and measuring up to it. A special social worker to assist in all the New Orleans churches is under Mr. Lawless' direction and the community work of Tougaloo College has had his aggressive attention.

The Texas and Oklahoma field is one of magnificent distances. One of the most notable of its achievements under Supt. Kingsley's leadership has been the organization of scattered churches in the four associational groups for mutual fellowship and assistance. This whole list of Congregational devices was new to the Negro, Southwest. The important cities of Beaumont and Galveston have organized new churches and a remarkable proportion of the fields in this district have church or parsonage building enterprises under way. Supt. Kingsley has ably represented Tillotson College in the field and has made a very happy impression on the northern churches which have been privileged to hear him. All told there is a new note of courage, a new enthusiasm of youth, a new definiteness of method and a new precision of service throughout the Southern church field.

REV. GEORGE W. MOORE, D.D.

WE regret that continued ill health of the Rev. George W. Moore, D.D., has constrained him to resign from the superintendency of church work with colored people in the churches which are under the auspices—watch and care—of the American Missionary Association, and in which he has been so capable and highly useful for many years.

REV. GEO. W. MOORE, D.D., AT 50 YEARS OF AGE

Dr. Moore, born a slave in Nashville, Tennessee, in 1854, was sold in slavery with his mother previous to the war. When freedom came, the family united began life in Nashville on their own account. Their first home in freedom was one of extreme poverty. At the age of ten years the youth was helping to support himself by selling tinware and sulphur water, carrying market baskets and running errands. At about sixteen he had completed what was then the normal course of study in what was then Fisk University—by name. After leaving school and three months of peculiar experience, which changed his whole purpose in life, the importance of further education became clear to him and encouraged by Mr. H. W. Hubbard, Treasurer of Fisk University, he began school anew and worked his way through the preparatory and college courses graduating with the class of 1881. It was there that he was led to give his heart to Christ and to consecrate his life to His service. In June, 1876, while yet a student when Fisk University moved to its new home this young man began to preach at Howard Chapel, the site of the old school. He was successful in gathering a congregation there and in organizing a church which after a varied history has come to be a self-supporting, successful and representative Christian church. Upon his graduation feeling the need of preparation for his calling as a minister he entered the Theological Seminary of Oberlin College, from which he was graduated with the degree of B.D. in 1883. He was pastor of Lincoln Memorial Church, Washington, D. C. from 1883 to 1892. During this pastorate he was active in missionary, evangelistic, charitable, temperance and Y.M.C.A. work, and during this time also he was a professor of biblical history and literature in the theological department of Howard University. In 1889 he traveled extensively through Great Britain and continental Europe as a delegate to the World's Sunday-school Convention and delivered an address in the City Temple of London on the colored work in the United States. He has been a delegate and speaker at several international gatherings. In 1892 he was appointed field missionary of the American Missionary Association and later to the superintendency of the Negro church work. He was honored with the degree of Doctor of Divinity by Howard University in 1908. Dr. Moore has been for many years, and is now, a trustee of Fisk University. His preaching has been an inspiration to the churches and his earnest life has been a fine example. In view of his long service upon his retirement the Executive Committee voted Dr. Moore the title of Honorary Superintendent.

Not a few of our constituents to whom this American Missionary is a regular visitor will recall the interesting presentations of the work made by Dr. Moore in former days throughout the North, and all of them will join with us in regret that he has suffered in health and in our wish for his restoration, and for many years of satisfaction in such service as he may be able to render for the people to whom he has given thirty-eight devoted years of missionary life.

The pastors of the churches in the South under the auspices of the American Missionary Association in their letters to this office express their high appreciation of Dr. Moore's sympathetic care in the past and join with us in their hope and good wishes for the future.

RESULTS.

By Principal T. S. Inborden, Joseph K. Brick School, N. C.

FOR the last few years so much has been said about the Negro that whatever one has to say seems only a recapitulation. Every phase of his life has been exploited in public address, in literature and upon the stage.

You have heard so much of the Russian Jew that the name has its own significance. The mentioning of the Italians suggests to you a coal mine or a lot of men digging a sewer. So with the Negro. So much has been said against him that the name suggests the worst features of the race. He has been caricatured in every conceivable way.

We should learn to discriminate between the worth and the worthless of all races and to condemn any classification that includes the good with the bad. It is unjust.

Your missionaries who go South are good people and worthy of all praise, but often they come home to you and inadvertently leave a sad picture. They do not mean to do so, but they do. They tell you about the one-room log hut where the family of ten cook, eat and sleep, and that room without a window; they tell you about the crude way in which everything is done; they tell you about the quack doctors, quack lawyers, quack teachers and quack preachers. There are log huts in the South by the thousands, quacks in every profession and apparently few changes in the methods of doing things. Millions of dollars spent in fifty-five years and the lives of the best men you have for this work, and still these conditions? If I were supporting educational work in the South or anywhere else, and had only the saddest pictures presented to me as rewards of my philanthropy, I would get discouraged, as doubtless some of you have done. I want to show you the brighter side.

Take, for example, Fisk University organized nearly fifty years ago.

During all these years her graduates, to say nothing about the undergraduates, have gone out into the world and created public sentiment, and changed the conditions of life. They have established schools; have preached the Gospel instead of merely an emotional religion; they are teachers of a very high order in every part of the South. They are building up the home life in the communities in which they live. Instead of the one-room hut they are building cottages with rooms ranging from four to a dozen, furnished with all the paraphernalia of the most cultured homes of the country. Their courage and inspiration have been a leavening wherever they have gone. What is true of this one school is equally true of many of the other schools of the American Missionary Association. If you should make a dot on the map of the Southern states for every one who had been influenced by these schools there would scarcely be room to note the cities, boundaries and rivers. Indeed there would be many dots beyond the boundaries of the Southern states, beyond the Pacific and Atlantic oceans. Not all are hewers of wood and drawers of water, but they are filling places that demand the best possible trained minds and great executive ability.

Hundreds of examples would illustrate the result of philanthropy in the South.

A few years ago the President of the United States visited Fisk University. Let me quote him: "It is absolutely necessary that your race should have leaders; it is absolutely necessary that your race should have men of advanced education, of advanced education professionally." This sentiment is entirely in accord with that which the founders of the American Missionary Association propagated fifty years ago, and which the early missionaries disseminated in founding all of our higher institutions. This is a very important statement coming as it does from the President of the United States to the students of an institution which has always stood for the highest and best in Negro life and development. We thank God that we have a few such schools, and that beyond this in the North and even across the waters there is the opportunity in them for those who have the means and ability to get the "advanced education professionally."

All denominational schools, all the public schools, all the State schools, and the ministry and all other organizations that have for their object the moral and intellectual advancement of the Negro in this part of our national domain have received a wonderful impulse from Northern beneficence and brain. In the South the educational problem alone is taxing its resources beyond all precedent. Let us hope that the work of educating and Christianizing shall receive no impediment until a full application of the Christian spirit permeates every vocation in life.

In order for you to fully appreciate the work that the American Missionary Association is doing in the South among colored people it is necessary for you to have positive knowledge of their lives and homes. You cannot get this knowledge by riding through the country on the trains. You may ride from Boston to Florida on the trains and know nothing about the masses of Negroes. You must know the homes and plantation quarters if you would know the real condition. A ride through the country would give you an external view of the log cabins and a sight of a crowd of children with every appearance of squalor and poverty. I have visited thousands of such homes from Arkansas to the Atlantic Coast and I know their conditions and influences. Many of them are degrading. The children have nothing to associate with these homes except places in which to eat and sleep and thousands are not fit places in which to do that. The surprise is that in very, very many of these homes there are the highest forms of chastity and virtue. Many old ignorant Negroes, inheriting the spirit of Southern chivalry from their old masters, have eked out their life blood across the threshold of their old cabins, trying to maintain the purity of such cabins. When this gets into the papers the facts are so distorted that you never know the truth.

There are three difficulties encountered in the educational problem of the Negro. The first is that the Negroes have been intensely discouraged. They have had and are having to-day grounded into every fiber of their natures the idea that they are intended only for the cotton field and house servant. To meet this difficulty the work of education must begin with the mothers and fathers in their cabins face to face with their little ones. The rural schools to teach the people general agriculture and home economics are placing emphasis at the base of the problem. The mothers' meeting and farmers' conferences are teaching these discouraged people to look up and have confidence in themselves, To be discouraged is the worst affliction that can come to man or beast; the beast lies down to die, man loses all hope and cares not whether he lives or dies.

Another difficulty is the popular prejudice on the part of a great many white people against Negro education of whatever nature. Prejudice cannot be downed with argument. It is only intensified. Nothing but the grace of God will kill it. The spirit of God must dominate our schools, public and private, black as well as white. Where this sort of education progresses race prejudice will be the least. I think it worth emphasizing that where schools are located in healthful and intelligent communities race friction is the least encountered. It must not be thought that the Negro has no friends to educations in the white South. Notwithstanding the few discordant notes you hear from various sections the South is lifting on its burden. Some of the best Christian men in the entire country are directing its educational policies and the general trend is forward.

The third difficulty we have is a financial one. It is a recognized fact that the South is dependent largely upon Negro labor for its sustenance. The millions of pounds of cotton, tobacco, peanuts, and other produce chronicled from time to time; the fact of his owning 14,255,164 acres of land in North Carolina, Mississippi and Georgia, to say nothing about his possessions in the other states, do not prove that all Negroes are lazy and shiftless. This is a monument to their industry, even if it is the product of ignorant labor. The system of land tenure in the South makes it hard for the poor man, colored or white, to rise far above the absolute necessities of life. It is harder for the colored man because of the many discriminating laws and juries. The dawn of a better day has appeared above the horizon for the Negro. The elimination of the rum traffic in most of the Southern states means less vice, less jail fines, more farms for the Negroes, more and better economy in the homes, more boys and girls in our schools and higher aspirations for all the race.

What have you done?

You have demonstrated to the world, through the noble men and women you have sent into the South, that the Negro intellect is as active and capable of high attainments as that of any other nationality in the world. When you read in our missionary journals that the boys and girls walk ten or twelve miles daily to school and that they bring eggs, poultry, butter, milk, sugar-cane or fish, or a cart of wood with which to pay their tuition and buy books, don't think it is fiction. It is a fact that shows a determination and an enthusiasm that knows no bounds but success. It shows also where you began with these people. By your faith and patience and financial support these boys and girls have put the African dialect into English, you have made college presidents of boot-blacks, preachers of the highest order of Pullman porters and hotel boys; you have made first-class college professors out of cotton pickers. You have transformed thousands of log cabins into beautiful homes with broad lawns of fine shrubbery. In many of these homes you will find some of the same books that you read; the same papers that give life and tone to your home; the same music that your sons have studied. Instead of the rough, sullen, the uncouth, the sour-looking, the dissipated, the furrow-faced, the half-clad boy that came up from Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia, a few years ago to College, you will find a gentleman of culture and refinement, whose intellectual aspirations could be satisfied only by having a diploma from Oberlin, Yale, Harvard, Heidelberg or Oxford. Let no one say this sort of education is not needed. The lower the scale of general intelligence of the masses the higher should be the attainments of the leaders in intelligence, morality, temperance, virtue, loyalty to truth, and patriotism. This alone is the plane of enlightened citizenship.

The grandeur of such work as you are doing all over this country will never be fully realized until the trumpet of the centuries shall call up the generations that have been influenced in these schools. Then up from the cane farms of Louisiana, from the bottoms of Mississippi, from the swamps of Arkansas and Georgia, from the rice fields of South Carolina, from the highlands of Tennessee and Kentucky, will come the testimony, overwhelming, triumphant and jubilant.

GRANDVIEW NORMAL INSTITUTE

Grandview, Tenn.

GRANDVIEW Normal is a Congregational school for the highlanders. Long ago driven to the mountains by the growth of slavery, isolation and poor soil have impoverished this race, and sunk them as a class in ignorance; but they retain such promising qualities that Christian people cannot leave them to their mischoices. Opportunity for these people shows that they very soon share the abilities and qualities of their benefactors.

GRAND VIEW SCHOOL

This school is located at the eastern edge of the Cumberland Range overlooking the Tennessee Valley north of Chattanooga and was founded to furnish Christian education to this great section, then almost destitute of schools. Its location and good name have attracted students from the valley as well as from the mountains.

Conditions of living are hard enough now in both sections, especially for women and children, as primitive dwellings, customs, and appliances prevail largely in the open country. But in the last twenty-five years this school has been the means of great improvements. A large number of those who receive teaching here leave the section because there is very little industrial development. But a large number also stay with the farms and, by their intelligence and high moral standards, have been gradually transforming the social life of the scattered communities where they live.

The present teaching force at Grandview is indebted to former workers who did the pioneer work. The early days of the school were full of difficulties which now seldom occur. The task of training the raw material from the mountains was hard on the nerves and called both for wisdom and caution. The character of the school to-day differs little from that of any co-educational institution of its grade out in "God's country."

Practical industrial training has a prominent place. We are seeking to make this feature not only efficient, but also attractive. Connected with the school is a large farm, furnishing work and instruction. By good fortune we have a good outfit of carpenter and blacksmith tools but are hampered in their use by lack of resources. On account of poverty or indifference of parents many of our students must work all or part of their way. The school supplies the work but much of the money to pay for it must come from gifts for that purpose.

An institution of this kind contributes to the welfare of our country in a very real sense. These Southern young people having received education are fitted to take their part in useful life. They prove their worth and their American spirit. Great leaders, Andrew Jackson, James K. Polk, Abraham Lincoln, Admiral Farragut, and Stonewall Jackson came from this Scotch-Irish people and more are in the making.

There are ten buildings in use at the present time, besides farm buildings. Our expenses are kept at the lowest point possible, but the financial problem is always with us. For the past we give thanks; for the present we try to do our part; for the future we trust God, generous people, and school industry. We believe that there is no form of missionary work whose returns are more immediate and permanent. Our greatest stress and hope is in the upbuilding of Christian character.

The pictures show the students assembling and the new dormitory just erected in place of one destroyed by fire.

RELIGIOUS INTEREST IN TALLADEGA COLLEGE

THE pastor of the Congregational church which is associated with Talledega College writes to us in gladness of heart in view of the religious interest in his work. He writes: "Talladega College is true to the original type of the American Missionary Association school. While scholarship is insisted upon, the chief emphasis, as of old, is placed upon Christian character. In the recent observance of the week of prayer this was very manifest. The church joined hands with the school in union services. Meetings were held at the time most convenient for the entire student body. Notice of the subjects to be considered each night were posted and the students asked to attend. Most of the faculty and of the student religious organizations became active in the endeavor to interest and reach all. Topics like the following were considered: What is the meaning of prayer? What does it mean to be a Christian? What is meant by Christian growth? Why should more emphasis be placed on Christian life? The entire series of meetings was largely attended and the interest constantly deepened. The series culminated in a consecration and decision meeting when eight students dedicated their lives to the ministry, one to Africa, four to home missions, one to Y.M.C.A. work, fourteen to teaching, twenty-three others to various forms of specific Christian work; fourteen for the first time dedicated their lives to Christ and to Christian service, and not for a long time has the college and church been more deeply stirred.

THE BEECHER MEMORIAL FOR TALLADEGA COLLEGE

In response to the appeal in the January number of this machine for contributions to the Henry Ward Beecher Memorial Fund for Talladega College one check has been received accompanied by the following note:

"Enclosed please find a small check which I send for the Beecher Memorial Fund for Talladega College. I am sure that if every one who has received inspiration and comfort from the writings of Henry Ward Beecher would send you even this small amount the fund would be quickly raised."

TALLADEGA College, the only institution for higher education for the Negro in the entire state of Alabama is doing a greatly needed work. We are trying and earnestly hoping to raise for it an adequate endowment that it may no longer be crippled in its work. We hope that many more will welcome the privilege which we have to educate and uplift the people for whom Talladega is giving its life and we believe that there will be found benevolent and far seeing people who will generously be moved to send contributions, eager to do a large part in furnishing the needed help to a needy people. The fund is in memory of Henry Ward Beecher who helped to teach the world the love of God. All checks for this Henry Ward Beecher Fund should be made payable to Willard E. Edmister, Treasurer of the Beecher Campaign Fund and should be sent to H. L. Simmons, Secretary, 287 Fourth Avenue, New York City.

THIS SPEAKS FOR ITSELF

A LITTLE church in Cortland, Nebraska, of 160 resident members has just forwarded 46 subscriptions for THE AMERICAN MISSIONARY.

When the pastor was asked how he did it, we received the following reply:

"In answer to your question we got this club of 46 subscribers by taking plenty of time to make a canvass of the church and congregation, in some cases calling persons up by telephone, and in all cases telling them that they might pay when convenient. This is an important part of it in a rural congregation. About half of it was paid, and most of the balance will come in during the next few months.

"I think it is worth while to spend time getting these subscriptions, for they will do more to educate the people, young and old, than a number of sermons, although, of course, I give them the sermons, too."

AMERICAN HYPOCRITES IN MEXICAN EYES

THIS was the title of a sermon recently preached by a well known pastor of Brooklyn, the Rev. S. Edward Young, D.D., which plainly utters what many are thinking. He says:

"Why should we rage so over the killing of Americans in Mexico, at their own peril and of their own volition, and keep so cool about Americans butchering Americans under the guard of our own government? Of course we should insist upon the rights of Americans in Mexico and on the Lusitania and the Ancona; but until we establish justice and safety to Americans from Americans with America, how can we hope to command respect for our citizens traveling abroad? We consent to having our laws make fish of one and fowl of the other among our fellow-citizens equally entitled to the law's protection. We lynch the Jew, Frank, in Georgia, and the Negro at Coatesville, Pa., and make it both North and South a heinous crime to be born with a black skin or an Abrahamic countenance, and on the Pacific Coast to carry a Japanese or Chinese physique. At home and abroad we are laying up for ourselves wrath against the day of wrath. We have published to the whole world our fundamental doctrine that all our citizens are equal before the law, and in practice we are giving the lie to that declaration. Whatever race-feeling, whatever pride, whatever political interests stand in the way, we must give every citizen a square deal, irrespective of color or original nationality or race, or else we will go out of business as a Government. We must make our boys who play fast and loose with the city and state statutes obey, or they will head us toward anarchy by and by."

THE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH BUILDING SOCIETY

Office: 287 Fourth Avenue, New York.

General Secretary, Charles H. Richards, D.D., Treasurer, Charles H. Baker.

Church Efficiency Secretary, William W. Newell, D.D., 19 So. La Salle St., Chicago, Ill.
Field Secretaries, John P. Sanderson, D.D., 19 So. La Salle Street, Chicago, Ill.; William W. Leete, D.D., Room 611, Congregational House, Boston, Mass.; Rev. H. H. Wikoff, 417 Market Street, San Francisco, Cal.; Assistant Field Secretary, Mrs. C. H. Taintor, Clinton, Conn.

Here is a good point about the "apportionment" made by the Rev. S. Hitchcock at the North Dakota Conference last September. It is worth while for pastors in other states to consider it. He says:

"The matter of raising the apportionment is largely a problem in pastoral will-power. At the beginning of the year let each pastor say to himself: 'The amount apportioned to my church is just, and it is one of our duties to provide for it. Therefore, I'll ask the Trustees to add so much to the budget, the ladies to assume a share, the Sunday-school to take a little, the Endeavor Society to help, and what's left I'll pay.' Such a plan wisely and tactfully supervised would succeed, and not cost the pastor more than his due share."

Everyone should understand clearly just what the action of the National Council really means as related to the readjustment of the societies. It was expressly stated by the Commission on Missions that a consolidation of societies was not intended. It is, rather, a federation of two or more societies under a single administrative management. Each society remains intact, with its own special and distinctive work. A statement recently appeared naming the six national benevolent organizations remaining as the result of the National Council's action. In this statement no mention is made of the Congregational Home Missionary Society, the Congregational Church Building Society, the Congregational Sunday-School Society, or the Congregational Education Society. One might think they had disappeared. The impression given, unwittingly, is that they have been supplanted by new Boards. On the contrary, each of these societies is alive and doing well. Each retains its separate corporate identity, its separate funds, its special apportionment, and its special work. The Church Extension Group made up of the Home Missionary, Church Building, and Sunday-School Societies, is to have a joint administration through a common Board of Directors and General Secretary, but each Society continues much as before. Churches and individuals will still have the privilege of sending their donations to the Church Building Society just as usual, which we are sure they will greatly appreciate.

Our January receipts were larger than usual. We were therefore able to respond to the appeals of twenty-eight churches, some of which had been waiting long for money enough to be sent to our treasury to aid them. Two of these got parsonage loans. Four church loans were voted, with grants to go with them. Twenty-two other grants were voted, mostly in quite moderate amounts. The happy churches to receive this aid are in fourteen states. Five of them are German churches, and one each Slovak, Finnish and Scandinavian. Most of the grants are to home missionary churches in rather small communities, but four are city churches. They will all be deeply grateful to the generous-hearted friends in our Congregational fellowship who thus reach out the helping hand to their needier and weaker sister-churches.

A QUARTET OF PROMISING CHURCHES

IF you visit the Capital of our country take a trolley some Sunday and ride eastward to the border of Maryland, and when six miles out you will reach the little community called Capitol Heights. Here is a cluster of homes where a preaching station has recently been developed into a promising young church. The pastor brings to his work the warm and ardent spirit of the South joined to the Pilgrim love of liberty. Under his guidance the little church has developed to a membership of sixty, with a Sunday-school of one hundred and sixteen, and the building which was originally not very attractive has been transformed into a comely and commodious house of worship, with a good auditorium, and an unusually fine room for Sunday-school and social purposes. While the community may grow slowly, we look to see a substantial and increasing work done by this little church.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH, CAPITOL HEIGHTS, MD.

It it a far cry from there to South Elmdale, Minnesota, but it is worth taking the journey to see this fine congregation of Bohemian farmers who come from long distances to church, bringing their whole families with them. They had an inadequate building which they have, with the aid of this Society, enlarged and improved so that they now have not only a good auditorium for their growing congregations, but first rate social rooms, making provision for mothers with little children, and for whole families coming to the church service. The community is increasing with Slav settlers, and people are acquiring their farms and making improvements. The church has a whole acre of land for its parsonage and house of worship, and if the building had been erected in the city its cost would have been about ten thousand dollars. This is one of the strongest Protestant Slovak settlements in that region. On dedication day, the services included sermons in English and Bohemian, and lasted almost continuously from 10.30 A. M. until 9 o'clock P. M. The interior of this church is neatly painted, having a fine reproduction in fresco colors of Hoffman's "Christ in Gethsemane" on the wall back of the pulpit, the work of a young Slovak, son of one of the farmers in the community. The president of the "Soo Line" Railway put a good bell in the belfry.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH, MARION, NO. DAKOTA

Passing from Minnesota into North Dakota, we come to Marion, a village of three hundred people, with as many more within three miles, in the midst of a fine farming community. When the church organized thirteen years ago, it did not seek our aid in building the original house of worship. This, however, became outgrown and inadequate, and they have asked for our help in improving and enlarging the church. Two-thirds of the people are Americans, and that they are independent and vigorous Americans is shown by the fact that they pay the pastor's entire salary of $1,200 without asking for outside aid. They are getting a remarkably attractive and convenient house of worship for about $4,400, and when they are comfortably settled in this new church they will take up the parsonage enterprise on which they also expect aid from this Society.

NEWPORT, R. I.
UNION CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH,

Turning eastward again we come to the old historic city of Newport, Rhode Island, replete with memories of Colonial days. Our United Congregational Church dates back to 1720, and has had a fine development and exercises large influence in the community. Not far from this historic church is a younger church made up of colored Congregationalists called the Union Church. With about a hundred members, and less than half that number in the Sunday-school, this earnest company of Christian people has secured a neat and convenient house of worship which, with its lot, has a value of about $8,000. To get full possession of it without indebtedness, they turned to this Society for a helping hand which it was glad to extend.

These four churches show the wide variety of the work of this Society both in its geographical relations and in the varying classes of people whom we assist. This very variety indicates the large and increasing importance of our service both East and West.

WHERE SHALL THE MINISTER LIVE?

THIS important question has been well answered by at least two of our churches.

DENVER, COLORADO, Seventh Avenue, Congregational Church, has an interesting story. The Rev. Robert Allingham took charge of the enterprise in what was known as Villa Park, a suburb of that beautiful Capital City at the foot of the Rocky Mountains. He found it a community not much inclined to regard churches with strong interest, but being a people's man he soon organized an interesting community enterprise in which all classes joined. When he started to build the church, he took his own pick and shovel on to the lot and began to dig. Little by little he coaxed into the same work others who were willing to donate their labor though having no connection with the church. The people contributed more than three thousand dollars' worth of labor and material, and with what they could raise in cash and what they received from this Society, they presently had one of the most attractive suburban churches in that state. No sooner was the church done than it became a question as to what they should do to shelter the minister. A parsonage adds to the stability of the church as well as to the comfort of the pastor and his family, and it seemed an essential thing to provide a good home where the father, mother and children could be comfortably taken care of. As the result, an attractive and convenient parsonage has been added to the church equipment, and now this church has in its twin buildings a splendid outfit for its work. Mr. Allingham has gone to develop another church enterprise, but his place has been taken by another pastor occupying this parsonage.

PARSONAGE, FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH, BILLINGS, MONT.

Another church which has an interesting history is our First Church in BILLINGS, MONTANA. Many years ago this became an important railway point, and the town bears the name of Frederick Billings, who was President of the Northern Pacific Railway, and who did much for this community. Our church has had a fine history in this important western city, and it is now thirty-four years since its organization. It had a very good brick house of worship with a less attractive parsonage. But it has recently, under the energetic leadership of its pastor, Rev. W. H. North, transformed its church building, and in addition has secured a new and attractive and commodious parsonage close by. With its membership approaching four hundred, with a good German church not far way, and a new and most promising "community church" on the South side, and with the Billings Polytechnic Institute finely located a mile or two from the city, this church holds a leadership in Montana rarely equalled.

We are glad to have had a share in the work of both these churches, and our parsonage loans have helped to secure these two beautiful buildings which gives to the pastors good, comfortable homes.

In spite of the fact that we were able in January to aid twenty-eight churches, there remained on our docket eighty-four applications for grants, church loans and parsonage loans, asking for more than $153,000. Six additional applications have since come in. Where is the money to come from to meet these appeals? Will you send us a special donation to aid these sister churches in their need?

THE CONGREGATIONAL EDUCATION SOCIETY

Office: 14 Beacon Street, Boston, Mass.

President, Clarence F. Swift, D.D.; Vice-President, Charles R. Brown, D.D.; Secretary, Rev. Frank M. Sheldon; Secretary, Rev. Edward S. Tead; Treasurer, Samuel F. Wilkins; Field Superintendents, Rev. Sam. H. Goodwin, Provo, Utah, and Josiah H. Heald, D.D., Albuquerque, New Mexico.

TO SECURE LEADERS

F. M. Sheldon, Secretary

Last year Congregationalists graduated from their nine theological schools 140 men; 26 of these are in other denominations, 26 do not enter the pastorate; this leaves 88 to supply the year's loss.

But the Year-Book necrology shows 99 deaths, leaving us 11 short, with no allowance for those who go to foreign fields, for those who leave the ministry for other callings, and for growth. Probably we are failing by 125 to 150 yearly to train our own ministers.

To secure adequate material for our ministry we must touch home, church and our whole life with a new spirit.

In view of this situation, the assistance of our ministers is sought in solving this problem. They can help in at least two definite ways:

1. By so bringing this matter to their people as to enlist their sympathetic and prayerful co-operation in securing needed recruits. We must bring more parents to where they believe in the ministry as a calling for their sons.

2. By sending to the Secretary the names of one to three of their most promising high-school pupils whom we may cultivate in this matter. We do not urge the ministry upon these boys. We first send a letter to each asking if he would care to receive four or five letters a year from denominational leaders. These men will prepare letters on such subjects as will suggest the possibilities in Christian and social service. These we will send to the boys. Our aim is to give more of our promising boys real information as to the opportunities in Christian service and callings.

This effort is endorsed by denominational leaders to whom it has been presented.

THE CHRISTIAN STUDENT MOVEMENT

What is it doing in the United States and Canada?

Do you know that in 770 institutions of higher learning there are men's Associations with a membership of 75,000 professors and students and in 721 institutions women's Associations with 65,000 members?

Do you know that during last year there were 93,181 men and women in voluntary Bible Study groups in North American institutions?

Are you aware that the last college year (1914-1915) 374 evangelistic campaigns were held among college men and preparatory school boys, resulting in hundreds of decisions for the Christian life?

Do you realize that since the organization of the Student Volunteer Movement in 1886 over 6,160 college graduates have sailed for service under the different foreign mission boards?

THE CONGREGATIONAL SUNDAY-SCHOOL AND PUBLISHING SOCIETY

MISSIONARY AND EXTENSION DEPARTMENT

Office: 805 Congregational House, Boston, Mass.

President, Rev. Clarence F. Swift, D.D.; Missionary and Extension Secretary, Rev. William Ewing, D.D.; Treasurer, Samuel F. Wilkins; District and Educational Secretaries, Rev. Robert W. Gammon, D.D.; 19 West Jackson Street, Chicago, Ill.; Rev. Milton S. Littlefield, D.D., 289 Fourth Ave., New York, N. Y.; Rev. J. P. OBrien, D.D., 4128 Campbell Street, Kansas City, Mo.; Rev. Miles B. Fisher, 417 Market Street, San Francisco, Calif.; Associate, Miss Margaret Slattery, Malden, Mass.

The eighty-fourth year of the Sunday-School Society closed February 29, with a good record of work accomplished; all bills paid, and a substantial increase in the permanent, and equalizing legacy funds. The total receipts were the largest in the history of the Society.

CHILDREN'S DAY

The Sunday-School Society has bright prospects of a most excellent Children's Day service, entitled "The Young Crusaders," which is being prepared by Rev. W. W. Sleeper, who is unsurpassed in this department of effort. The service will be issued in the May PILGRIM TEACHER. It is hoped that every school may supply all its workers with THE PILGRIM TEACHER, which is coming to be indispensable in all our wide-awake Sunday-schools.

THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL COUNCIL

Each annual meeting of the Sunday-School Council of Evangelical Churches of the United States and Canada brings more closely together the representatives of over seventeen millions of Sunday-school members. They are one in their aim to evangelize these two great countries and to give the best possible Christian instruction to the youth. In every matter under discussion, there has been no cleavage along national or denominational lines.

The meeting recently held at Richmond, Va., emphasized three great opportunities:

First, the need of Sunday-school extension in the hundreds of places in both countries which are yet unreached.

Second, the need and splendid opportunity of improving the whole character of the Sunday-school work, calling for improved literature and for Sunday-school workers to be leaders in religious education.

Third, the need of special workers and special literature for reaching alien peoples who are here in such vast numbers.

It was shown that many of the so-called foreigners gladly unite with our Sunday-schools, if we have suitable literature, and workers who understand their customs and can enter into their national feeling. The Sunday-School Council makes a great united army. The Congregational Sunday-School and Publishing Society has had an important place in its deliberations in the publishing, editing, educational, and extension departments. It is to be earnestly hoped that the Society may continue to have its part in the great onward movement in which all the denominations are heartily uniting.

GOOD WORK IN UTAH

By Rev. Frank L. Moore, Supt. H. M. Soc.

Park City, Utah, has been pastorless for many years. The report of the Sunday-school for the past year places it in a class by itself for efficiency in the home work and in things beyond. Mrs. W. J. Buck is the Superintendent and Mrs. Wm. M. Ferry, the Superintendent Emeritus. The Sunday-school is thoroughly graded, having senior, intermediate and primary departments. There are thirteen teachers and officers; the total enrollment is 140, the average attendance 83; collections during the year $97.27. A class of 18 was graduated from the primary to the intermediate department. The Sunday-school sends a delegate to the Sunday-School Association, and observes Easter, Children's Day and Christmas. Few schools without the help of a pastor can report such a year's work as this.

SOUTH DAKOTA FRONTIER

By Rev. Rollin B. Holden, Miss'y.

For a week the mercury has ranged from eight to forty-four degrees below zero. Both Mrs. Holden and I have frozen our faces, and so have had to restrict our traveling somewhat.

We determined early this month to visit a Sunday-school in the extreme west of our county-wide parish, forty miles away. We made some calls en route, and stopped to announce a song service on Sunday evening at one of the homes. At Owatoa, that Sunday, there was a school of thirty members of all ages, from small children to old men and women. These people have preaching only at very long intervals when we can get over to them; but they maintain their Sunday-school, some of the young people coming via motorcycle about fourteen miles. They are a spiritual people, and it is a pleasure to help them. We drove back to White Hill for the evening song service, and twenty-two of the neighbors and friends gathered on the very short notice. It was a good service of song and prayer.

Strool has been a problem from the Sunday-school point of view; for, while there were a few children in town, and near by in the country, there had not been anyone who was enough interested to be willing to manage a school. Finally a lady came to teach the district school. She was looking for an opportunity to put her love for Christ into work for Him. She rented a house and fitted a room for club and Sunday-school purposes, and has an attendance of fourteen. Our Society assisted in the organization, and helped with a grant of the first quarter's supplies. Money has been secured for an organ, and so the work goes on.

We are looking forward to the summer when our schools in these widely scattered communities can resume their sessions.

BLACK BOARD SERMONS

By Rev. Jesse W. Foster, "Panhandle," Tex.

The picture sermons which I have been giving to the children have caused quite a stir, and favorable comment by the parents, as well as the children. At first I had short chalk talks for the children at the beginning of the Sunday services; but now have special services for children on other days. The children are pleased to watch the drawing of the pictures, and like them best in colors. The material is largely from the parables of Christ and Bible characters. I sometimes take readings from Hurlbut's Story of the Bible, making it clear that it is all found in the Bible itself. The children love to repeat the story when called for.

The object is evangelistic, with a hope of getting them to confess Christ with a clear understanding, and to enter into church membership.

EASTER MESSAGES

"This, my message, sweet and holy,
Tired souls forget your pain,
Christ the Lord for you is risen:
Doubting hearts, He lives again."

Easter means to me, personally, an absolute, unwavering Hope,—through my own risen Christ,—of a new Life after my physical death. It means victory which will last forever. It means the satisfaction of going Home, some day, to stay,—to live in one of Father's many mansions with a perfect family circle.

ALICE FREEMAN FIRMAN, ILLINOIS.

Easter means to me the fulfilling of all the longings of the Pagan heart in its celebration of Destre. The return of beauty to the earth, the coming of birds and flowers, of warmth and joy—all find its final satisfaction in the coming of the life and love that could not be holden of death.

To every Christian Easter means the hope and belief in immortality. Then suddenly death touches one's own heart and home, and belief and hope break into knowledge. In that moment one knows that life and love are changeless.

JENNIE CHAMBERLIN HOSFORD,
NEBRASKA.

"May Easter day
To thine heart say
'Christ died and rose for me,'
May Easter night
In thine heart write
'O Christ, I live to Thee.'"

GATHERING THE OFFERING

Our special offerings seem the most difficult for which to plan. While many members, in fact, the majority in the societies need not the novel or new idea to inspire their giving, still with some a new incentive must be put forward. And the thank-offering boxes (forget that we ever called them mite boxes and eased our conscience by giving the mites) used to raise the special offering will afford a society an opportunity for planning a splendid meeting and cause the members to realize at least for the one or two months during which the boxes are distributed, how many, many causes for thanksgiving occur in our homes and every-day life and at the same time we are trained to return to Him each day some share of what He has bestowed on us that His work may be constantly pushed forward. Shareholders we are with Christ and we will find it so much easier to divide the share each day.

This method of using the boxes has been employed in one Society for a number of years and the idea of their being for Thank-offerings so emphasized that each succeeding Praise Service in the fall and the closing meeting of the year in the spring, sees more boxes given out and more boxes returned with increasingly generous offerings.

Little six-year-old daughter of the pastor's wife had had the meaning of the small square box on mother's bureau explained to her and had grasped its full import and when one day some occurrence brought to mother's lips the exclamation, "O I am so thankful," little daughter called out, "Then, hadn't you better run right up and put the money in your box before your forget it?"

TOPIC FOR APRIL, 1916
EASTER OFFERING MEETING

A large paste-board Easter egg with a slot in one side may be placed on an appropriately decorated table to receive the offerings of the members as they enter.

PROGRAM

Arranged by Isabel Dwight Reed

Hymn: The Day of Resurrection.
Scripture: John 20:1-22.
Prayer, in unison: (Typewritten copies may be prepared and distributed before the meeting).

Almighty God, our Heavenly Father; Hasten, we beseech Thee the coming of Thy kingdom upon earth, and draw the whole world of mankind into willing obedience to Thy blessed reign. Overcome all the enemies of Christ, and bring low every power that is exalted against Him. Cast out all the evil things that cause wars and fightings among us and let Thy Spirit rule the hearts of men in righteousness and love. Restore the desolations of former days; rejoice the wilderness with beauty and make glad the city with Thy law. Establish every work that is founded on truth and equity and fulfill all the good hopes and desires of Thy people. Manifest Thy will, Almighty Father, in the brotherhood of man and bring in universal peace through the victory of Christ our Lord. Amen.

Hymn: Lift up, lift up your voices now. 3 stanzas.
Presentation of the Home Mission Pageant. Written by Edith H. Allen.

This pageant may be used through the courtesy of the Council of Women for Home Missions and secured from Mrs. F. W. Wilcox, 287 Fourth Avenue, New York. Price, 15 cents. If the entire pageant cannot be given the following program taken from it is suggested:

Episode: The Pilgrims.
Solo: Lord God of Hosts be with us yet, lest we forget.
Episode: Children of all Nations.
Hymn: Stand up, Stand up for Jesus.
Recitation by the Spirit of Church, "Christian, dost thou hear them."
Hymn (all uniting): Send thou, O Lord, to every place. 5 stanzas.

During the singing of the hymn the Pilgrims return and are grouped with the Children of the Nations, the Spirit of Church standing at the extreme right and the Spirit of Country at the extreme left. When all are assembled the Church and Country repeat the Scripture verses with which the pageant closes.

Hymn: (all uniting): Ten thousand times ten thousand.

The Committee on Young People's and Junior Work urge the observance of the "Children's Lenten Offering for Home Missions," in Elementary Sunday-schools. Very attractive envelopes for the use of the children have been prepared and are now ready for distribution. Junior secretaries for the various state unions will designate the objects for the gifts in their respective states, according to their several plans of work, and will furnish information thereon. In this way a general plan, presented for its together spirit and for the reasonableness of such an appeal during the six weeks before Easter, lends itself to whatever adaptation state leaders may desire. All elementary superintendents are urged to join in the observance and to make the children feel that many are giving together for one great work, though widely separated geographically, and with gifts directed to widely different parts of the great Home Mission field. Envelopes and further information may be obtained by addressing the Junior Secretary of your state Union or Miss Marion Gary, Rutland, Vermont.

Have you ordered your prayer Calendars yet? Price, 15 cents per copy; two for 25 cents. Address Federation Secretary, 287 Fourth Avenue, New York.
